

STREET CAR RIOT UNION MEN SHOT

Labor's Hosts in Serried Ranks March Through Oakland Streets in Biggest Parade Ever Held Here

GRAND MARSHAL BOWEN STARTING THE GREAT LABOR PARADE TODAY.

20,000 Workingmen, Representing 90 Unions, Pass in Review in Gay Regalia, With Magnificent Floats Typical of Their Trades.

The greatest procession which has ever taken place in this city was that in honor of Labor Day which paraded the streets of the business section this morning.

This statement is made, mindful of the fact that there have been processions in Oakland on the Fourth of July which, for many reasons, and especially for the number of people and organizations they contained, were the pride of local residents and aroused the admiration of the people throughout the county of Alameda as also of the several other cities around the bay.

NINETY UNIONS IN LINE.

There were about ninety individual unions in line today. There were in these unions, in the street display, not fewer than twenty thousand men.

All of these unions were uniformed, to two being similarly attired. As a consequence there was always in the view of the spectator a scene of activity and kaleidoscopic variety which it would be most difficult to adequately describe.

While as a rule, in the raiment donned by them, the unions did not depart to a great degree from the colors and the material which are used by them in their daily walks of life, there was still an attractiveness in them which riveted the attention of the onlooker and aroused the admiration of everybody.

There were also divisions in the procession and each of them was headed by a band.

The general rendezvous was along Eighth street, as the main-line of formation and unions met there, and on the north side of that thoroughfare.

WEATHER IS PERFECT.

The day was perfect. There was a bright sun in the sky, but it shed only a genial warmth, and while it inspired the marchers to make a commendable showing in military bearing, it intensified the martial appearance of the organization and the brilliant banners and flags which they bore with them in their ranks.

Labor Day in this city has always been blessed with pleasant weather, but it has never experienced a more genial temperature than that of today.

THOUSANDS VIEW PARADE.

The pleasant weather was instrumental in bringing tens of thousands of people from their homes to the streets in the heart of the city to witness the spectacle and, as a consequence, there was not a thoroughfare along which the procession passed which was not lined with people, five thick, all eager and anxious to take in the gorgeous pageant.

The main streets in the business section were lined along the curbs for the purpose of preventing people from getting into the street and thus in the way of the marchers, and these wires were reinforced by a number of policemen, but the presence of these latter was not necessary, for the reason that the spectators were governed by good sense and there was not a thing to interfere with orderly progression of the marching host.

EASY FOR OFFICERS.

At various distances along the line of march outside the business district where there were no wires extended, there were details of police but they had even less than the men in the heart of town to do in the matter of preserving order.

At times the line came to a halt. This was not, however, because of some defect in the formation but for the purpose of affording some of the older men in the several unions who are not accustomed to walking, to take a rest. This was an excellent idea and was appreciated by every person in line.

In this connection it may be stated that the procession was handled in a masterly manner by Grand Marshal Bowen and his assistants, and in this respect it was without a peer in the history of similar displays in this part of the State.

MOVES AT 10 O'CLOCK.

The parade was given the order to move at a few minutes after 10 o'clock. Indeed, in this respect, it was the most prompt that can be recalled for many and many a year.

The magnitude of the procession may be imagined when it is stated that while the middle part of the column was being reviewed on the grandstand at the corner at the intersection of Telegraph avenue and Broadway, the left of the line had not yet moved from its rendezvous at the place of formation.

To many of the unions on the side streets waiting to wheel into line this wait was somewhat irksome. They could see their comrades filing by. They could hear the boom of the drums in the distance. Notes of martial music reached their ears, and they felt the impatience of troops held as relieving corps, impatient for the arrival of the orders to march to the scene of engagement.

OF GREAT MAGNITUDE.

At last their time arrived to join in the pageant. On each of the streets extending from Clay for a mile or more west there were unions massed which formed a procession in themselves so that the magnitude of that marching host may be imagined.

One year ago there were about 3500 men in the labor procession, and today there were twenty thousand men in the same parade. This is a fair way of showing how the city of Oakland has advanced in industrial activity as well as in every other walk of development.

LINE OF MARCH.

The line of march was as follows: From Eighth and Market streets, thence northerly along Washington to Fourteenth, thence westerly along Fourteenth to Clay, thence northerly on Clay to San Pablo avenue, thence northerly on San Pablo avenue to Jones street, thence easterly to Telegraph avenue, thence northerly on Telegraph avenue to Twenty-first street, thence easterly on Twenty-first street to New Broadway, thence southerly on Broadway to Seventh and Broadway, where there was a countermarch to Broadway and Twentieth street, where the procession disbanded. The reviewing stand was at the junction of Telegraph avenue and Broadway, near the flagpole.

FLAG SALUTES.

As the right of the column reached the great flagpole on the corner at the intersection of Telegraph avenue and Broadway, the flag on the staff broke out to its fullest by a breeze from the bay and so remained during the passing of the column.

WILD MOB ATTACKS CARMEN WHO REPLY WITH HAIL OF LEAD

Following is the list of those injured:
JOHN PETERSON, union man, shot in the groin; may die.

J. W. HALL, United Railroad inspector, shot in head.

F. J. DURSTON, shot in head and badly cut.

HENRY C. CASTAN, motorman, hit on head with rocks, badly cut.

THOMAS BOWMAN, Union iron-worker, shot in leg.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—A serious riot occurred at Sansome and Market at 12:30 p. m. today when the union men who had participated in the parade were returning to their homes. The trouble started through the calling of a name at a nonunion car conductor, and soon an angry mob had surrounded the car and were hurling rocks and shooting in all directions.

Jack Peterson, a house-smith, was shot in the groin and is in a critical condition. J. W. Hale, of 144 Tremont avenue, received severe scalp wounds. The mob was so unruly and threatened so much violence that riot call was sent in to the Central Police station and a hundred officers were rushed in all directions to the scene.

An alarm of fire was also turned in in order to provide the officers with hose to fight off the mob. Orders were issued to all officers to keep back the crowd with water when all else failed, but it was not found necessary to use the water.

At the same time the riot was taking place at Sansome and Market streets another was progressing at East and Market, and William Bowman received three gunshot wounds in the leg and several others were slightly injured. The police charged the mob repeatedly and finally succeeded in dispersing them. Bert Wallace was arrested on a charge of assault to murder for shooting Bowman, and Charles Summerfield and Lee Turner were arrested for participating in a riot.

The trouble started at the ferry, where it is asserted a Sutter-street car broke through the line of parade. A mob followed the car and attacked it. The motorman, believing that his life was in danger, opened fire and wounded Bowman. A block farther up an inspector was attacked by the mob. He was suddenly struck in the face, and then ran from his assailants. They followed him and near the corner of Sutter and Market streets overtook him. He pulled a pistol and aimed at Peterson. The inspector opened fire and shot the man through the groin. Six shots were fired. A riot call was sent in to the police and fire departments, and a force of police officers and firemen were soon on the scene. The men who did the shooting were arrested, but several rioters who were seized by the police were released.

The cars of the United Railroads had stopped while the parade was in progress but when the marchers began to disperse the cars commenced running. There was a dense crowd at the ferries and the mob resented the attempt of the cars to run.

When the police jumped in to quell the riot a number of them, as soon as they made arrests, were set upon and mobbed. One policeman said afterward: "It took twenty officers to make a single arrest."

THOUSANDS IN THE RIOT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Several men were wounded, one probably fatally, during a riot which occurred shortly before noon today on Market street, near the ferry landing. The riot was precipitated by an attack on a non-union inspector of the United Railroads and was participated in by several thousand people.

members were in citizen suits, carried decorated canes, their union banner being borne aloft by sturdy arms. Each marching mechanic wore a silk badge with the name and number of his union conspicuously displayed. They formed and marched in columns with four in each file.

Sign and Carriage Painters' Union No. 474 was 115 strong and followed with a float decorated with large signs, oval in shape, ten feet in diameter and displaying pictorially a landscape scene. The wagon on which the float rested was half hidden in a profusion of bunting and flags, but the oval sign was conspicuous and high enough above the car to be seen as appreciated by the multitude. The members wore white duck suits and carried parol-colored flags. Their banner was carried on a combination of two bicycles.

Carpenter Union No. 1, with C. Johnson as aide, had a float with five members in line in citizens' dress.

GRAND MARSHAL BOWE AND HIS AIDES.

BIGGEST UNION DEMONSTRATION OF CITY AROUSES ENTHUSIASM

Division 1

The leading organization in the procession was the guard of honor to the grand marshal, comprising sixteen mounted men. These were useful as well as ornamental. They rode well and presented an attractive appearance in their black and white uniforms, the most prominent of which was the yellow sash which they wore over their left shoulders. They cleared the way whenever a vehicle was found to be dilatory in getting out of the line of the column. This guard was composed of Captain C. M. Wardell in charge; J. B. Harris, Jack Kennard, C. O'Neill, H. A. Stange, Tom Courtney, L. W. Newton, William Van Halstren, J. Forest, F. Overton, Charles Gilmartin, C. D. Rogers, E. M. Edwards, O. Manning, D. Rios, C. Moreno.

GRAND MARSHAL IN LINE.

Following these came Grand Marshal J. E. Bowen and his aides. The grand marshal was mounted on a magnificent black steed and rode with an ease and grace which were generally admired. The mount seemed to realize that there was something of more than ordinary importance transpiring and also bore himself in a manner to attract attention. The aides were also mounted and most of these were in possession of horses who knew how to put on airs of their own.

The grand marshal's aides were as follows: J. W. Buby, R. B. Poorman, F. W. Reichardt, George Janssen, C. Harbidge. Carriages containing judges of award—R. M. Hamb, A. M. Thompson, William Rame and F. H. Pratt.

The first division was formed at the intersection of Eighth and Market streets and it was there and in that vicinity that the grand marshal and his aides took up their respective positions.

Of this division C. R. Elder was the marshal and he was assisted by Joe Silva and James Fagan as aides. This division was headed by Scott's Band and it was left to that organization to set the expenditure of very much effort; and those who did not wish to put forth even that effort could take that course without greatly marring the precision of the movements of those who were inclined to be in time with the music.

APPRECIATE HONOR.

The honor of the right of the line was given to the Laborers' Protective Association for a variety of reasons and it was an honor which the members of that organization appreciated.

There were about 500 men in line and these presented a fine appearance. At the head of their body there were several hacks which contained ex-officers and some of the older members of the organization and among these were Martin Donahoe, James Delaney, Bob Armstrong, Martin McGowan, Edw. O'Malia, Owen Fenney, Patrick Teylin, C. Clifford, E. Coakley.

CARRY CANES.

The men were attired in white duck trousers, dark brown pongee shirts, drab hats, leather belts, and carried ornamental canes. Each member wore a badge of green and gold. The organization was under the charge of Marshal McShane. At their head were borne two banners, one of blue and the other of green. These bore symbols of the calling, and on the reverse was inscribed the sentiment, "In Union There is Strength."

Next in line was Lathers' Union No. 88. This was under the marshaling of James P. Burke. At the head of the union was carried a fine banner, the banner being Charles Cason. He was assisted by Howard Cason and David Johnson. The uniform worn by these men consisted of white duck overalls, blue shirts, dark brown hats, a blue and white badge for each member and each marcher carried a new hatchet. There were about 115 men were in line.

OFFICERS IN CARRIAGES.

Plasterers' Union No. 112 was next in line, and in it the place of honor was given to a number of the officers of this and other years as follows, who rode in carriages: Peter Nelson, G. H. McKay, Jack T. Kerns, L. E. Kassa, Patrick Walsh, A. Bayers, J. F. Pierce, F. G. Wagner, W. T. Coleman, W. V. Hart, M. Nelson and Owen Kelley.

Division 2

The second division formed on Market street, north of Eighth street. It was numerically strong, its membership completely filling that street from Eighth to Twelfth while the parade was forming.

FLOAT OF THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' UNION.

Marshal F. H. Mosher of this division was assisted by H. L. Underwood and C. L. Philbrick as division aides. The colored mimes and a dancing band of horses, in the vehicle rode A. E. O'Neill, Carl Goodman, J. Finlan and V. Failing. An automobile followed containing H. P. Vickers, F. Frager, W. H. Craig, F. D. Prang and A. R. Maxfield. All these members wore in dark colored sliver shirts, black trousers and soft hats.

hats and were neat and businesslike in appearance.

In the lead of Felt and Composition Roofers' Union No. 15 was a neat two-seated rig drawn by a gray mare. William Warner was marshal, with R. Davis, J. McCarthy, W. Walsh, J. Donahue, W. B. Stall, and L. S. as aides.

The main teamsters' float was drawn by eight large sorrel horses. At the head of the float were two men, one in a harness and another in a suit, both carrying flags. The float was decorated with bunting and flags. The members were in uniform, wearing blue shirts, dark trousers, and soft hats. They carried canes and wore their union badges.

Plumbers, Gas and Steam Fitters' Union No. 444, with William Stanley, Sam Donohue and Fred Rehrbach as aides. There were 326 of the members in line, all neatly uniformed in black sliver shirts, black pants and soft hats. They carried canes, and wore their union badges.

Division 3

W. W. Thompson was marshal of the Third Division, with George Fitzgerald and A. N. Joliff as aides. The division formed on West street from Eighth northward. It had Callahan's Band music to march behind. The division included Plumbers' Union No. 444, Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 215, Material Teamsters' Union No. 577, with a float and a decorated wagon. House Movers' Union No. 1, with two floats; Lumber Carriers' Union, the division was a big one, and its members attracted much favorable comment. They marched in columns of four in each file and kept good line and step to the air played by the band. In a carriage at the head of the division rode W. J. Kyle, N. Gustafson, G. Belval, W. J. Atkinson and John McHerron. A second carriage fell into line later.

TEAMSTERS IN LINE.

Material Teamsters' Union No. 567, in the third division, had 450 members in line, dressed in neat black sliver shirts, black trousers, and soft hats. William Warner was marshal, with R. Davis, J. McCarthy, W. Walsh, J. Donahue, W. B. Stall, and L. S. as aides.

The main teamsters' float was drawn by eight large sorrel horses. At the head of the float were two men, one in a harness and another in a suit, both carrying flags. The float was decorated with bunting and flags. The members were in uniform, wearing blue shirts, dark trousers, and soft hats. They carried canes and wore their union badges.

The lumber handlers 250 strong wore blue shirts, soft gray hats and black trousers.

The Longshoremen, 350 strong also wore blue shirts, gray hats and dark trousers. W. L. Dodd was marshal with M. P. Nelson, M. G. McFarland, and David Reese.

There was a goodly showing made by the Stone Masons' and Artificial Stone Setters' Union.

CLERKS ON MARCH.

Lumber Clerks Union No. 2, with Lumber Handlers No. 225 and Longshoremen brought up the rear of the third division.

The Lumber Clerks were fifty strong in gray shirts and hats; black trousers and their banner on a bicycle truck.

The Lumber handlers 250 strong wore blue shirts, soft gray hats and black trousers.

THOUSANDS RENDEZVOUS AT GOLDEN GATE PARK

Labor Council Unions Across Bay Precede Day's Outing and Festivities With Monster Parade.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Unions affiliated with the San Francisco Labor Council celebrated Labor Day with a parade and exercises in Golden Gate Park. The procession started at 11 o'clock. It consisted of five divisions. About 50,000 took part.

Grand Marshal Michael Casey had as his chief aide Frederick Zimmermann and Will J. French. Following was the order of parade and program of the day:

The City Front Federation formed on McAllister street with right resting on Baker street. A. C. Holmes was marshal. His supporters were Andrew Brandt, Robert Talfor, J. D. Fitzpatrick and George Comstock. The unions formed as follows: Riggers' Protective Union, Brotherhood of Teamsters, Shipwrights, Riggers and Stevedores, Hoisting Engineers, Pilot Drivers and Bridge Builders, Music by members of the Musicians' Union.

The Allied Provision Trades Council assembled on Fulton street, off Baker. Marshal J. E. Vera and Aides M. E. Decker and Miss Edith Reynolds headed the Brewery Workers, Brewery Bottlers, Brewery Wagon Drivers, Sugar Workers and the Milk Wagon Drivers. Several bands accompanied this Council.

IRON TRADES.

The Iron Trades Council gathered on Grove street. J. W. Sweeney was the marshal and T. A. Reardon and William Clinton acted as aides. The Iron Molders, Pattern Makers, Steel Workers, Blacksmiths, Blacksmith Helpers, Machinists, Machinists' Auxiliary, Machine Hands, Casting Chippers, Electrical Workers, Boiler Makers, Coppermiths, Steam Fitters, Ship Builders, Stationary Firemen and Boiler Makers constituted the alignment.

The miscellaneous division marched from Hayes street. Marshal J. J. Breslin led the Horsehoopers, Barbers, Gas Workers, Retail Clerks, Carriers, Carriage Workers, Ice Wagon Drivers, Boot and Shoe Cutters, Leather Workers, Metal Polishers, Pavers and Ramblers, Soap and Candle Workers, Bootblacks and Cemetery Employees. Four bands accompanied this division.

The Allied Printing Trades Council marshalled its forces on Fell street, with right resting on Baker street. Andrew J. Gallagher was the marshal and his aides were Miss Annie Drollet and Frank Lightfoot. Typographical Union No. 21 led the line. Then came the Photo Engravers, Bindery Women (in carriages), Bookbinders, Web Pressmen, Stereotypers and Electrotypers, Printing Pressmen and Press Assistants. Three bands furnished the music.

Upon reaching the stadium and commencing on the lawn of the stadium the literary exercises occupied a brief period. Following was the program:

GALLAGHER TALKS.

Music, Schuppert's Band; introduction of president of the day, Andrew J. Gallagher, by Will J. French, chairman of Labor Day celebration committee; introductory remarks by Andrew J. Gallagher, president San Francisco Labor Council; music, Schuppert's Band; oration, Hon. James G. Maguire; music, Schuppert's Band.

The sprint and distance events were under the supervision of the Amateur Athletic Association.

On the speedway surrounding the Stadium there were exhibitions of trotting under the management of the San Francisco Driving Club.

The baseball nines of the Typographical Union and Clear Makers competed for a silver cup.

the pace for the long line of marchers. This is a duty which is sometimes very imperfectly performed by organizations of this kind because they do not distinguish when they are playing for the march step of a crack military organization or a troupe of minstrels on parade or a procession composed entirely of aged veterans of the several wars of the country and men of peace who are seldom required to quicken their pace even to that of a quickstep. In this instance the selections, while not always of a martial character, had movement to inspire those who wished to keep step to do so without

The marshal was A. Hillam. The banner was carried by E. Holman and he was assisted by two lads, R. Bayles and Arthur Kerna. There were about 400 men in line.

The Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers' Union No. 33, followed under the marshaling of R. Minchin, and he had as aides J. McPhee and C. E. Sorrell. The men were dressed in white marcellite trousers, black shirts and white caps, a leather belt and each wore a cane. The banner was borne by R. J. Dyer and the flag was carried by W. C. Hatto. There were 150 men in line.

swung into the marching column on Eighth street. Williams' band of sixteen pieces, in natty uniforms of dark blue, headed the division, immediately after Marshal Mosher and his aides.

UNION SOO STRONG.

Plasterers, Paper Hangers and Decorators' Union No. 127 had the right of line in this division and turned out 800 strong. J. C. Crowley was marshal of the union, his aides being E. Jones, J. F. Wainstay, B. Dickson, William Colgate, William Coleman, M. J. McCullough, Charles Newbaum, E. Willebrand, Charles Graff and W. Williams. The

Then there was a wagon-load of plaster in sacks, drawn by six horses, the team being drawn by J. Silva, for the Standard Supply Company. The wagon was decorated with red, yellow and green bunting. F. Harris, T. J. Alven, King and Jack Widdowson were along with this feature.

A decorated wagon, drawn by four horses, driven by W. F. Beck, followed the Material Teamsters' float, and carried twenty members, too lame to endure marching afoot.

Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 215 turned out 120 in line, with Malcolm R. Bunkhead as marshal, Ed. Cusack and L. Miller, as aides. The members wore long walking coats of gray, soft like hats, and carried light blue banners with bunches of small red, white and blue baby ribbons attached to the square handles. This union was distinctive in appearance. It marched like veteran soldiers in files of four men abreast, and kept step to the music.

HOUSE MOVERS.

House Movers' Union, No. 1, made a very creditable showing. No. 1, McAdam was marshal, with William Morris as aide. The members, fifty strong, wore neat khaki suits.

On a wagon driven by Theo Hbeas were arranged blocks and tackle, jackstaws, and rollers typical of the craft. On the rear end of the float was a diminutive cabin, with the word "V" painted on its sloping roof.

The Housemovers' second float was a more pretentious affair. It was drawn by a team driven by Joseph Lawler, with William Newhouse and John Warner as assistants. A square little cottage, its sides painted, and

YOUNG CHAMPIONS BATTLE IN THE RING AT COLMA

Big Crowd Watch the Middleweights Engage in a Fierce Contest This Afternoon.

COLMA, Sept. 2.—There is great interest in the Ketchel-Thomas fight. Many ladies have entered the arena and each one received an ovation. Joe Ketchel and wife have just entered and they received the cheers of the crowd. The arena is about half filled. Manager Coffey announces that he had a $5000 advance sale and judging from the looks of the crowd about an $8000 house will be divided between the fighters.

The men for the first preliminary have just entered the ring. Kyle Whitney and Ed Carter are the principals. Whitney is a 10 to 4 favorite. The betting at the ring is on the Thomas-Ketchel fight is 10 to 6.

FIRST PRELIMINARY. Billy Roche has been introduced as the referee. The preliminary fight is for a $500 side bet and a purse. The men are both in great condition. Near the end of the round Whitney landed a right and left on Carter which almost put him down. Carter is a little bad.

ROUND TWO. Both men go to the center of the ring and swing wildly. Whitney brings first blood on Carter. Whitney is landing left and right and Carter is in a bad way. Carter is very tired and Whitney is a sure winner.

ROUND THREE. Both men have fought hard with Whitney doing most of the landing, and most of the crowd and is cheered every time he lands. Whitney is slowly wearing his opponent down.

ROUND FOUR. Both men are slugging but not doing much damage. Both swing wildly and Kyle Whitney is much the stronger.

ROUND FIVE. Whitney is forcing Carter about the ring and Carter is trying to stay the limit. Kyle Whitney, the colored demon is wearing an Olympic Club emblem on his tights. Many of the Olympic Club members at the ringside are very sore over the colored man's wearing their emblem.

ROUND SIX. Whitney forced Carter to the rope where he landed right and left to the head time after time, and finally knocked him out.

ated with the Building Trades Council had just been dismissed at the corner of Main and Mission streets and a large crowd was waiting at the ferry to go across the bay to Shell Mound Park, where literary exercises and athletic games were part of the day's program.

ATTACK ON INSPECTOR. For some cause, not clearly understood, but believed to have been the running of a street car close to the assembled people, an attack was made on Inspector J. W. Hall, who was starting the cars for the United Railroads. Fearing the rush of the angry crowd, Conductor James Watkins and Motorman F. J. Durston of Sutter street car No. 1815 drew their revolvers and fired into the mob. This infuriated the crowd still more and the fighting soon extended along Market street from the ferry to the junction of Sansome and Sutter streets, a distance of about seven blocks.

The police reserves from the Harbor and Central stations were called up under Captain Conboy and part of the department was also summoned on a riot call.

FIRST ARREST. The first man arrested was Fred Summerfield, a member of the Structural Iron Workers' Union, who was taken to the Harbor police station. He and the arresting officer were followed by a crowd of men who attempted to rescue Summerfield, but without success. Bricks and stones were thrown at the officers and also at the police station. Captain Conboy mounted his horse and calling Conboy mounted his horse and calling PISTOLS IN HAND. In the meantime car No. 1815 had proceeded as far as Sutter street, followed all the way by a hooting crowd of men and boys, who bombarded it with bricks and other missiles. At this point the crew of the car again discharged their revolvers in self-protection and John Peterson received a serious wound in the groin.

The police placed under arrest James Watkins, conductor of Sutter street car No. 1815, F. J. Durston, motorman of the same car, and Robert Tyler, conductor of another car of the United Railroads. Several members of the mob were also arrested, but were released as there was no direct evidence connecting them with the assault on the car.

HORSE THIEF GANG ROUTED

SAN BERNARDINO Sept. 2.—A daring gang of Mexican horse thieves has just been broken up, after operating for ten years in Southern California, by Sheriff John C. Ralphs. After weeks of persistent effort, during which time he trailed them back and forth from Bakersfield to Mexico, succeeding in recovering several horses, Ralphs would have cornered most of the gang last night but for the unusual perfection of their escape system.

CHINO HEADQUARTERS. Two weeks ago the sheriff obtained descriptions of the thieves and learned that Chino was their headquarters. The gang had trusted confederates all over Southern California, who aided in the disposing of the stolen horses and who furnished information enabling the rustlers to locate horses worth stealing.

Two animals stolen from Chino were recovered by the sheriff Wednesday at San Diego, and one stolen there was recovered at Puente, near Los Angeles.

The general round-up of the gang was scheduled for Saturday night, but their system of communication worked so perfectly that they were warned and slipped through the cordon and are now being hotly pursued in a flight toward Mexico.

BRIDEGROOM GOES NOT TO WEDDING; ARREST RESULTS

Victoria Pomes Declares She'll Prosecute Victor Troulett, Her One-Time Sweet-heart, on Felony Charge.

Declaring that after he had promised to marry her and had gone so far as to set a date for their wedding, Victor Troulett, a Sausalito butcher, had refused to keep his word, Victoria Pomes, the daughter of J. M. Pomes, who lives in Orchard street, in Sausalito, has sworn to a complaint charging Troulett with a felony. Miss Pomes, who formerly was employed as an operator in the Oakland office of the Pacific States Telephone Company, was informed yesterday that Troulett had been arrested in Sausalito and she declared that she would prosecute him.

The young woman alleges that on March 2 of this year, while she was waiting the home of the accused in Sausalito, he asked her to become his wife, and that the wedding was set for Thursday, August 15. On that day Troulett failed to appear, and when a sister of the bride to be went to Sausalito to learn the cause of his failure to appear, he informed her that the man who was to act as best man at the wedding was out of town and that the wedding must be postponed until the following day.

SAYS TROULETT FLED. Miss Pomes returned to her sister with the news and the latter prepared for the marriage on the succeeding day. Again she was disappointed, and inquiry proved, according to her story, that Troulett had disappeared.

Then Miss Pomes sought the aid of the law to compel Troulett to keep his promise to make her his wife, and visiting District Attorney Bayd of Marin county she swore to a complaint charging her recalcitrant lover with felony. Until yesterday she had heard nothing from him. When told of the arrest of Troulett, Miss Pomes was also informed that the latter denied that he was the cause of her trouble and laid the responsibility on a young man named Paul Soule, who formerly lived in San Leandro.

DENIES CHARGE. Miss Pomes indignantly denied that the charge of Troulett was true and declared that until a month ago she had not seen Soule for nearly two years. The latter is now in Fresno, where he is engaged in business. Miss Pomes declared that she will compel Troulett to keep his promise for the attempt of her betrothed to escape from his obligation.

Troulett is 21 years old and a son of a respected and efficient police officer of Sausalito. Relatives of Miss Pomes are prominent and wealthy people of Alameda county and an uncle, an attorney, is said to have married a well-known mining man of Elmhurst.

F. R. PORTER AS A PROMOTER

His Skill is Lauded by a Leading Daily Newspaper of Northern California.

Under the captions "A Well Known Writer Here," and "F. R. Porter of the Oakland Tribune Viewing Nevada County," Editor Leonard B. Calkins of the Nevada City Miner-Transcript has this to say in that excellent daily newspaper, issue of August 31:

"F. R. Porter, a special commissioner of the OAKLAND DAILY TRIBUNE, arrived in Nevada City last night. It is his first visit to this part of the State. Mr. Porter will, after taking some personal observations of the county seat and Grass Valley, relate his impressions in a story to THE TRIBUNE. He recently visited Auburn and Lake Tahoe and THE TRIBUNE of the 20th instant contains his most interesting account of what he saw at those points."

"Mr. Porter has been a potent factor in advancing the commercial and industrial growth of his home city. He was the prime mover in the organization of the Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Exchange and the Alameda County Union League Club of that town. He was one of the original promoters of the McDonough Theater, The Liberty Theater and the new Park which have helped to make Oakland famous and was largely responsible for the existence of the State Board of Trade."

VICTIM OF PICKPOCKET WHILE ON SIDEWALK

E. W. Erickson of 923 Poplar street says that he lost a yellow leather wallet from his hip pocket while standing in front of the Nevada Theater Saturday night. He says the wallet was taken by a pickpocket. In his report of the affair to the police, Erickson claims the purse contained $100 in coin. The police are working on the case.

WOMAN DISAPPEARS FROM BERKELEY HOME

Fonzono Sosono living on Ashby avenue in Berkeley, has made complaint to the police of this city of the disappearance of his wife, Cora Sosono, who he says disappeared from home Saturday night. He says the woman is in a dangerous condition mentally and fears she may have met harm. He has asked the police to aid him in locating the woman.

STOLEN FROM CAR.

Mrs. De Souza of 250 Brav avenue reports that yesterday afternoon, while on an electric car, her telescope basket containing a variety of articles, was stolen.

WOMAN DENIES TUCKER STORY

Lieutenant Detailed to Gather Evidence Visits Mrs. Platt.

DENVER, Sept. 2.—Under orders from General Earl D. Thomas of the Department of Colorado, Lieutenant George Spaulding of Fort Logan is at Raton, N. M., gathering all available information in connection with the Tucker-Platt sensation.

General Thomas detailed Lieutenant Spaulding after instructions had been received from the War Department to make a report on the New Mexico-Tucker domestic troubles. The dispatch was not marked "confidential" and so there is no secrecy attending the mission of Lieutenant Spaulding.

The investigation into the Tucker scandal is being made incidental to a visit to the New Mexico and Arizona fortresses for the purpose of securing authentic maps of the places. Lieutenant Spaulding is superintendent of these matters in the Department of Colorado.

TWO SIDES. From the fact that his time in Raton has been spent in the company of C. M. Frey, the brother of Mrs. Myrtle Platt, the woman of whom Mrs. W. F. Tucker is complained to the War Department, it appears that the department considers that there are two sides to the story of Tucker's alleged misconduct.

The report of Lieutenant Spaulding will be forwarded to General Thomas in a few days and by him sent to Washington. It is rumored officially that the department inclines to the belief that there is nothing in the charges against Tucker, who belongs to the division of the Great Lakes.

FINDS ENGINEER

When Lieutenant Spaulding arrived in Raton he registered at the Hotel Seaberg. After making a few inquiries he located C. M. Frey, a Santa Fe railway engineer and the brother of Mrs. Platt. They spent the remainder of the day together, and Lieutenant Spaulding only left Frey when the engineer had to take his train on his usual run. They spent their time in the hotel, where, it is said, Frey signed a number of papers, supposed to be depositions in connection with the investigation.

Together the two men called on Mrs. Platt on the west side of the town. Mrs. Platt telephoned her attorney as soon as the two men had left and returned in the afternoon a second consultation was held. Mrs. Platt, it is said, denied absolutely the charges made against her by Mrs. Tucker and is alleged to have said some sensational things on the other side.

is a hazardous undertaking unless you are able to cite your authority, verily, verily, on the car this morning a long-haired individual was handing out specimens of sacred writs as models of English diction when he came to the well-known sentence, "The Lord tempereth the wind to the shorn lamb." "Hold on there," yelled his companion, "that is not from the Bible." You can imagine the sensations of our Biblical friend. All he could do was to sit there speechless and stare into space. And not a soul with fleeing could or would come to his rescue. I must look that phrase up. I wonder if Lehnhardt has a concordance, he has most everything that's good.

WOMEN TO PAY DANCE ENDS CHURCH DEBT WITH DUEL

Ladies' Aid Society Plans Benefit
Dance in Connection With Bazaar.

ALVARADO, Sept. 2.—The Ladies' Aid Society is holding a bazaar in the I. O. O. F. hall and on Saturday evening will give a dance at the same place.

The bazaar and dance are for the benefit of the church. The women hope by them to raise the debt and their efforts so far point to their success.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. E. A. Richmond Thursday. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. J. M. Scribner.

JOHN REBEKAH.

Alvarado Rebekah Degree Lodge initiated six candidates Saturday evening. Mrs. F. B. Granger entertained about thirty friends most delightfully at her home near town Friday.

Mrs. E. Beebe was tendered a surprise party in honor of her natal day Saturday by old friends. She was presented with a dozen beautiful cut glass tumblers.

J. H. Ralph, who is now comfortably settled in his new home, is entertaining his mother, Mrs. Katy Ralph, and his sister, Mrs. J. W. Atkinson, of Betteravia.

Mrs. A. May entertained informally a few friends at her home Thursday afternoon.

RETURNS HOME.

Miss May Woolsey of Iowa, who has been with her sister, Mrs. B. H. Ford, for two weeks, left for her home Saturday.

Miss Edna Ralph of Oakland, a former resident of Alvarado, spent several days of the week here visiting friends.

Miss Oscarina Nauer has returned from a stay in the Santa Cruz mountains.

Mrs. Joseph Machado and daughter of Greeley, Colorado, are visiting relatives here.

ENTERTAINING FRIENDS.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kitchener and children, Mrs. H. Stevens and Walter Stevens of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vandervoort and sons and William Allaire of Palo Alto were entertained at the Allaire home Sunday.

A. B. Nauer of San Francisco is at home on a two weeks' vacation.

W. H. Lee has returned to the city after spending a week here with his mother.

Benefit Results From Late
Anglo-Russian Treaty in Far East.

TOKIO, Sept. 2.—It is reported here on reliable authority that the new Anglo-Russian agreement divides Persia into two sections, but the respective spheres of influence of the two nations remain unchanged.

Afghanistan and the Southern division of Persia naturally are in the British sphere.

The principal benefit to result from the agreement will be the building of a railroad along the Persian gulf.

The status quo to be maintained in Afghanistan is not that which existed prior to the Russo-Japanese war, but the condition which followed that conflict.

AWAIT DETERMINATION OF GRAPE SCHEDULE

SANTA ROSA, Sept. 2.—With the grape-picking and winemaking season fast approaching growers of this county are eagerly awaiting a final determination as to the prices of grapes per ton.

One thing is certain, that the price will be good, as all the grapes are needed and there is a light crop in some instances.

The growers will demand a good price for their products and can do so. There is a report here that one of the northern county growers had been offered $28 a ton.

It is not expected, however, that the price will reach this figure, but it will be an advance on that of last year.

The hop-picking will be in full blast this week. There are plenty of pickers. The hope are of fine quality. Thousands of people are camped in the yards and after the hop crop is harvested hundreds of men will get employment in the vineyards and wineries.

WOMAN KNOCKED DOWN ON STREET BY CAR

Mrs. Anna De Marell, living on Third street near Crocker street, walked into a moving street car at Third and Washington streets, fell this morning and was knocked to the street, sustaining abrasions on her head, face and arm.

She was picked up by witnesses and taken to the Receiving Hospital, where Steward Borchert treated the injuries.

The woman says she was walking backward watching a friend on another car, who was unconscious of her surroundings until she fell into the pavement.

The car was stopped before serious damage could be done.

Chinese Gun Fighters Seek Cover
While the Police Are on Watch.

With the dragnet of the police out on both sides of the bay to gather in the gun fighters of the rival Hop Sing and Bing Kong gangs the Chinese pistol wielders have gone under cover for the time being. Oakland's Chinatown is under the closest police surveillance.

Chief of Police Wilson fears that the shooting will be resumed as soon as Lee Tong, victim, night before last, of Hop Sing bullets, dies. The Hop Sing gang have dropped out of sight. Four of their tong are in the Oakland city prison.

Representatives from San Francisco of the Hop Sing applied at police headquarters yesterday for the arrest of Won Yick Num, a Chinese merchant of Stockton and court interpreter at Martinez. They told the police that Num was implicated in the murder of Yick Wah in San Francisco Saturday morning.

POLICE PUZZLED.

Demand was also made for the arrest of Lee Tong, a Bing Kong man. The police declined to act without warrants. Lee Loy was in the Oakland city prison, detained as a witness in the Lee Tong shooting when the San Francisco murder occurred. Yick Num should be connected with the same gang, after the latest re-

Italians Infatuated With Same
Woman Battle With Pistols in Ballroom.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 2.—Because of the infatuation of two men for a beautiful Italian woman, a ball given by her to her countrymen came to a rude ending late last night in a duel, which resulted in Mansueto de Giorgio being shot three times through the shoulder and the arrest of Phillip del Giorgio charged with assault with intent to murder, he having immediately surrendered to the officers.

HIDE WOUNDED ONE.

Owing to a desire to shield the woman from the notoriety occasioned by the duel, her friends spirited the wounded man away, and before the officers arrived at the house bloodstains had been thoroughly removed. De Giorgio was found this morning concealed by friends several blocks distant.

The police became aware of the tragedy only when Del Giorgio, covered with blood, his face cut and bruised, walked into police headquarters and, handing over his revolver, announced that he had killed a man. He explained he had been suddenly attacked by De Giorgio during the ball, and after brisk fighting he had fired in self-defense.

PICNIC AND GAMES FOLLOW BIG PARADE AT RICHMOND

Members of Contra Costa County Unions
Make Splendid Success of Their Labor Day Celebration.

RICHMOND, Sept. 2.—There was a grand demonstration here today in celebration of Labor Day. Several hundred members of local labor unions participated in the parade, which formed on Washington avenue and marched through Washington avenue to McDonald avenue, up Richmond avenue, returning through Washington avenue to McDonald avenue, down McDonald avenue to the Southern Pacific depot, where the cars were taken to East Shore Park, at which place a picnic and program of games, baseball, etc., is being held this afternoon. The line of march follows:

A. E. White (Marshal, on horseback), Dr. H. M. Barney (in automobile), Standard Oil automobile, Martinez Band, Carpenters' Union, I. L. M. of Crockett and Port Costa, Plumbers' and Steam Fitters' Union, Boys' Brigade and Drum Corps, S. F. Jenkins (in automobile), Lathers' Union, Blacksmiths' Union, Firemen, Plasterers' Union, Teamsters' Union, Richmond Winery, Beer Drivers' Union, Enterprise Brewing Company wagon, Richmond Brewing and Milling Company, citizens and carriages.

After the service the funeral cortege, consisting of two hearses followed by a large number of carriages and other conveyances proceeded to Mountain View Cemetery where, after an additional service, the caskets containing the few fragments of flesh, which were recovered after the explosion and identified by particles of clothing adhered thereon, were lowered simultaneously into adjoining graves.

The Grand club, of which the deceased were members, attended the funeral in a body and the pallbearers consisted of eight young men, chosen from the club. Because of their inability to reach here from their home in Michigan, no relatives were present, but in place of these, loving and sorrowing friends attended to every detail and nothing was left undone.

The floral pieces were many and beautiful and completely covered the two adjoining mounds.

Charge of Cheating Ends in Fight in Which Both Empty Revolvers.

HEALDSBURG, Sept. 2.—In a duel in which both men emptied their revolvers, N. Passalacqua, a gambler, was killed yesterday by Ed Morrison, a San Francisco gambler, who is in the hospital with a bullet-shattered shoulder.

The dead man was wounded four times, the fatal shot entering his stomach. Morrison aroused his victim's temper by accusing him of cheating in a game of cards in which the San Francisco local considerable money.

The men had been playing until dawn this morning. The game ended in a bitter quarrel when Morrison accused Passalacqua with cheating. Passalacqua left the room and waited outside for an hour until Morrison emerged. Asking Morrison if he meant what he had said and being answered in the affirmative, Passalacqua drew his revolver and fired three shots in quick succession. The third bullet entered Morrison's shoulder. He then drew his revolver and while firing closed with Passalacqua, and passing his revolver against the man's stomach, fired the last shot. Passalacqua died a few minutes later in the hospital.

Two inspectors of the United Railroads placed the man under arrest after having obtained the names of several witnesses to the shooting.

When the man was taken to the station, Detective Whitaker was detailed on the case, and it was by his advice that Del Sarto's name was placed on the small book.

Further investigations by Whitaker and a statement he obtained from the man arrested leads him to believe that Del Sarto would have admitted the crime had his arm been good, and this morning he was formally charged with assault to commit murder.

Reason Speaks Amid Passion's Tempest.

It is refreshing to hear a note of clear common sense rising above the clamor of falsehood and storm of vilification. Professor Henry Morse Stephens of the State University has voiced a protest against the incessant muckraking and muckthrowing both timely and forcible. It is the expression of sanity and justice, both of which are sadly lacking in San Francisco at this time. Even the keen sense of humor and broad good temper which formerly characterized the people of San Francisco appear to have disappeared in the stress of calamity and the stern labor of repaling the ravages of disaster.

However, it is needful that something be done to prevent graft hunting becoming a craze, particularly when notorious grafters are heading the hunt. It is high time that a sense of proportion be restored, and the normal activities of life be given a chance. The local press is doing infinite harm by educating the public in evil thinking and evil speaking by making the people believe there is a burglar under every bed and a criminal in every business man. Professional muckrakers have been specially imported to defame the city and its inhabitants. The craze for picturing the entire community as corrupt and reveling in infamous crimes has gone so far that one wandering inkhorn of defamation has attacked the integrity of entire nationalities and assailed the honesty of a religious body comprising nearly half the inhabitants of the city.

If the local newspapers are to be credited, a war for the possession of the city is being waged between gods and demons. The sober realities of life are spurned as matters of unworth or the vain frettings of ignorance and vice. The processes of the law have become abnormal, the procedure of the courts extraordinary, and the remedies applied revolutionary. The orderly methods of the past have been discarded as obsolete, outworn and impotent. Discussion has been turned into clamorous abuse, and reason into a prolonged shriek of denunciation.

A private individual has taken charge of the machinery of justice and assumed personal supervision of the courts. He decides who shall and who shall not appear before the grand jury. That body is held together as a controlled weapon nearly a year after the law says it should be discharged. A privately retained lawyer has taken charge of the District Attorney's office, and a private detective—a non-resident—has usurped the functions of the Sheriff and the Chief of Police. On the bench a narrow, ignorant, vindictive product of gun-mill politics has been exalted into a Daniel and a Brutus rolled into one. Boodlers have been granted immunity, thieves honored and entrusted with authority—all in the name of justice and reform. Telling the truth about what is taking place is treated as an indictable offense, and in a thousand ways a gang of petty Marats, Dantons and Robespierres are trying to excite and maintain a reign of terror.

Yet San Francisco is doing wonders in the way of rebuilding her ruined structures and restoring her shattered commerce. Despite labor troubles, fomented for political or financial purposes, the mass of the people are industriously and intelligently striving to rear again the smitten walls, the hives of commerce are busy, the song of useful achievement chimes, and the spirit of progress ardent. A vast work has been accomplished, but the muckrakers and muckthrowers see nothing in all this worthy of commendation. Like the professional witchfinders of early New England, their mission is to hunt down and destroy. The rebuilding of a ruined city is nothing to them, they are indifferent to the good name and welfare of the community, industrial peace nor confidence in the financial and mercantile world have value in their eyes—scandal and accusation must burden their copy or their mission would be ended.

Fortunately there are men like Professor Henry Morse Stephens who understand the true relation of things, and are able to see clearly and discriminate intelligently, who have the wisdom to discern the evils of popular madness and the vices that lurk in the application of vigilante methods to judicial process. It is grateful to hear the voice of calm reason and warning admonition from a source beyond the reach of foul aspersion. In it is the hope of returning sanity and the resumption of normal reason to its throne.

According to the Chronicle, Mr. Spreckels is thinking of pulling Daniel A. Ryan out of the mayoralty fight. This is illuminating and instructive. So Mr. Spreckels controls Mr. Ryan, and can keep him in or pull him out at his pleasure. Does Mr. Spreckels propose to pull down one puppet to exalt another?

The Pacific Coast for Roosevelt.

A Washington dispatch says the President is receiving alarming advices from all parts of the country regarding the unpopularity of himself and Secretary Taft. Among other things it is stated that Secretary Metcalf has reported that the thirty-eight votes of the Pacific Coast can only be held in line for Roosevelt by the utmost exertions.

If the statements regarding other sections are no nearer the truth than this silly falsehood about sentiment on the Pacific Coast, they are the precise reverse of the facts. In every State and Territory of the extreme West, public sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of a third term for the President. Every vote here will be offered to him without the asking. If he should accept the nomination again, the election in this section of the Union would be a mere matter of form—there would hardly be the show of opposition.

Next to Roosevelt the most popular candidate for the Presidency is Secretary Taft. He is admired for his force, ability and executive talent; also for his strength of character and for his sturdy sense of justice. But his highest claim to popular favor at this time is that he is the logical successor to Theodore Roosevelt. He is in entire accord with them, and to the various administration reforms Roosevelt has urged with such signal success. Moreover, the Secretary of War urged with such signal success. Moreover, the Secretary of War has an attractive personality, and has displayed a high quality of statesmanship. His judicial temper and conservative method make him a safe man, worthy of all confidence and respect.

If public opinion in other States is in harmony with the sentiment of the Pacific Coast, President Roosevelt can have a third term by merely signifying he will accept the nomination. If not, the nomination and election of William H. Taft appear a certainty.

It is announced that the San Francisco hold-over grand jury is to be kept in leash till after the municipal election. Why dismiss it then? Why not keep it in stock for two or three years more? It was given out that the jury would be discharged after the primary. The primary has come and gone, and now the public is informed that the grand jury is to have another extension of life. What's the law between graft crusaders?

California Orange-Growers to Invade European Markets.

California is still a land of surprises in the development and disposition of its products. One of the latest developments is that of shipping oranges early in the season to the European markets. An English syndicate is represented to be responsible for the scheme. It is proposed to ship trainloads of the fruit direct to Galveston whence it will be put aboard specially chartered steamships for quick transportation to Europe.

The scheme grows out of the necessity of opening new markets for the product of the citrus groves of the southern counties to accommodate the steadily increasing volume of the crop and the expansion of the area devoted to citrus culture and to compensate for the loss of those markets from which the orange growers of the south have been crowded out by the citrus culturists of the northern and central part of the State. That an English syndicate should have inaugurated the new venture is not altogether surprising, as many of the larger orange groves in Riverside county are owned by Englishmen and the industry has reached such a stage that some new field other than the eastern and mid-western cities must be opened for the market of the continuously increasing surplus.

The California apple orchards have for some years past been supplying the British and European and Eastern markets in competition with the once famous apple orchards of New England and the apple producing countries in Great Britain. This State has also been supplying the Eastern and British markets with many other fruits in the production of which its orchards excel. Of late many kinds of vegetables, such as asparagus, celery, cabbages, cauliflower, onions and other products of the truck farms and gardens have found their way to remote markets in the Eastern States and abroad, where they have obtained quick sale at high prices, as they anticipate by several weeks other sources of supply and greatly excel in quality. Alameda county figures conspicuously in the shipment abroad of some of these products, while the seed growers of Santa Clara valley have been supplying the world for twenty years or more with onion and other vegetable seeds.

But the particularly notable feature of the proposed invasion of the British and European winter markets by the California orange growers is contained in the fact that they will come in direct competition with the products of the Mediterranean, the Azores, the Cape Verde Isles and the Canary Islands. Madeira oranges have practically controlled these markets in the past, but it is believed that the superior size and seedless character of the navel oranges of the California groves will result in as successful a competition against the importations from other sources as they waged in the markets of the Eastern States against the Florida crop.

Japan's Exclusion of Chinese.

Japan is about to administer a dose of exclusion medicine to its neighbor and, in a very broad sense, its ward China. The contractors engaged in constructing the Kagoshima and Higo Railway imported a large number of Chinese coolies to build the road, overlooking or ignoring the exclusion laws of Japan, which prohibit the admission of foreign laborers without imperial sanction. The latter was not obtained and in all probability the contractors will have to deport the coolies at their own expense, for the Japanese government has an eye single to the industrial interests of its own people.

When the United States administered a similar dose of exclusion medicine to Japan it gagged without reason. If an exclusion remedy to prevent the overrunning of the Japanese archipelago with China's surplus coolie labor is the proper thing to prevent undue competition with its own laboring classes and their degradation to a lower state than they now occupy, which would surely be the consequence in the event unrestricted Chinese immigration were tolerated, it can have no reasonable grievance against any friendly nation which prescribes the same course of treatment to prevent the entry of the coolie subjects of the Mikado to its domain for like reason. Japan's course in excluding Chinese coolies must logically break down its opposition to the exclusion of Japanese coolies from United States territory.

Pointed Paragraphs

Governor General Smith of the Philippines recently made a tour of the mountain provinces of Northern Luzon, chiefly inhabited by pagan tribes. On his return to Manila he said: "The journey through the mountain country was a revelation. I have never seen such cultivation as we saw in the mountains. These people have terraced the mountains in some instances a thousand feet high, and every bit of the land is under cultivation. The people are happy and always working hard. We traveled without a guard over a country that ten years ago was the most dangerous on the island. On one of the trains now used by Filipino farmers to take produce from Isabela into Cagayan, the Spaniards had three heavy outposts. Nothing of the kind is found there now and the trail is perfectly safe. I do not believe there is anything in the world that can equal the manner in which the people of the mountains have made their country productive. It certainly surpasses anything I have ever seen. The terraces in Japan are pyramidal compared with it. The earth and stone were brought for miles and the most wonderful part about it is that the terraces are as solid and substantial as if they were part of the mountain itself."

"What is happiness?" asks James Bryce in the August Atlantic. "Is it pleasure? And if so, what is pleasure? Aristotle gave us a definition of pleasure or rather perhaps, a description since the logician says that you cannot define an ultimate fact which has not been much improved upon. It is not however, psychological definitions that need concern us, but rather this question which occupied the utilitarian school seventy years ago whether the pleasures taken in the aggregate as constituting happiness are to be subjected to a qualitative as well as a quantitative analysis. Shall we measure them by the tenacity by which they are felt, or by the fineness and elevation of the feeling to which they appeal? Is the satisfaction which Pericles felt in watching the performance of a drama of Sophocles at an Athenian festival greater or less than the satisfaction which one of his slaves felt in obtaining a jar of wine?"

A story is told of Prince Knut, the 6-year-old son of the Crown Prince of Denmark. A heated dispute between his nurse and himself culminated in a sponge being thrown in the face of the former, and the royal mother being sent for. She decided that the princeling was in the wrong, and sent him to fetch the cane for his punishment. After some time he came back and remarked politely, "I can't find the stick, but here are two stones for you to throw at me!"

There is nothing better than a good woman, and nothing worse than a bad one.

Men who attempt to buy religion need not be disappointed if they get a gold brick.

There would be fewer undesirable mothers-in-law if there were more good sons-in-law.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Irregularities, Displacements, Pain in the Side, Dragging Sensations, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.

Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other one medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Art and Not Heart Guiding
Rule of Daring Society

3 Years of Spinsterhood Then--

SOCIETY GOSSIP

NORTHPORT, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Long Island is to be the scene of the very latest and most modern Adamless Eden. Fifty twentieth century Eve's, all artists with pencil, pen, brush or chisel, have taken unto themselves the vow of a three-year term of celibacy and abstinence from all serious love-making or innocent flirtation. The Glades, is to be run just like a club or hotel.

"And if, in three years, you can accustom yourself to thoughts of spinsterhood and devotion to Art with a capital A in black type—what chance has a young man to win you out after that?" says Anna B. Richardson, Northport resident. Every man will want to win out a fair colonist from The Glades or die in the attempt. There are lots of chaps who never think of matrimony until the wedding bells ring for the girls they thought they could marry any old time they spoke the word. Then they tear their hair and talk about the duplicitous and the instability of the feminine race. And Dan Cupid is laying a trap for just such men when he is lured into the Glades to immerse themselves at The Glades.

AT THE GLADES.
"And what do you find at The Glades?" she continues.
"First, a fence—a nice, strong, stoutly built and plastered, barred and palloked fence—presided over, or rather from behind, by a guaranteed, yard wide, dried-in-the-wool chaperon. And behind the chaperon will be the artist, who, if you will, is seated on the most approved architectural lines with just the correct studio and light arrangements for fifty charming artists. And each studio on the fifth floor will have its bathroom and kitchenette and trio of artists. For what's the use of a studio without a kitchenette, even if no more man is coming to eat the lovely messes mixed in said kitchenette? If the chaperon is very busy, some day a little red named Cupid might help a underhearted colonist slip a Welsh rarebit or a sardine sandwich down to a hungry man waiting on the other side of the fence.

"On the ground floor it will be all one room, and will some one please

PROSPECTUS OF THE EDEN.
Part of the prospectus reads:
"While it is recognized that the commingling of the sexes is feasible and even desirable under certain educational conditions, yet it is not believed that the practice conduces to the best results where art students or workers are concerned. This conclusion, it must be remembered, is not the outcome of any prudish prompting or unreasonable motive.

"It is simply based upon (1) a recognition of that normal instinct which urges young men and women to seek the society of the opposite sex, sometimes regardless of policy or self-interest; and (2) that the earnest female student, if she be desirous of realizing her ambitions, must be willing to sacrifice her desires in the respect related upon the altar of her art.

"As an illustration of what is meant in this connection it may be stated that the time, energy and application wasted in the case of a silly, fruitless summer 'flirtation' would, if diverted into the channel of study, have a direct and manifestly beneficial effect upon the professional advancement of a girl student."

rise and explain why that one room is to be not only a sitting room but a dance hall? Are the fifty personable young artists to further chasten their industrious spirits by dancing with each other? A dance hall in an Adamless Eden? Could Tanalanus himself think up a more agonizing penance."

And such charming girls as this dance hall of entrancing floorings and deliciously shadowy window ledges will look!

NO MAN-HATERS.
There is not a man-hater in the fifty. That is one of the things which the fifty, individually and collectively, wish to have understood. They don't hate men—they simply fear 'em, and women for their Art. Every one knows that you can't pay your devo-

SOME OF THE BY-LAWS.
Among the by-laws are the following:
"RULE VII—Except on visiting days—the second Saturday of each month—no males will be admitted to the house, offices or grounds of The Glades on any pretext whatever. The only relaxation of this rule will be in the case of sickness.

"RULE VIII—While it would be unwise and, indeed, impossible to attempt an arbitrary control of the actions of students and workers after study hours, yet the persistent disregard of the spirit and policy of The Glades during the evenings or other periods of leisure will not find favor with the managing board, and will subject the offender to suspension or such discipline as the board may see fit to direct.

"RULE XII—Members of The Glades colony will be asked to pledge themselves to spinsterhood for a period of three years from the date of their becoming affiliated with the former. But they can be released from this pledge at any time upon application to the managing board. Such application, however, will be looked upon as equivalent to a resignation."

your head. So any way you take it, you are a winner by joining the new colony of Eves.

THE OFFICERS.
There is Miss Elizabeth Curtis, the City, and would make almost a perfect president. She hails from Salt Lake City, and would make any young man rise up to defend Mormonism. She has added to the true type of Utah beauty the dash and style which come with two years' stay in New York as a student of Cooper Union. And she can design wonderful book covers as well as colonies for matrimonially abstemious artists.

Miss Ethel Stewart, of Manhattan, is the corresponding secretary, but all

Mrs. J. Loran Pease will entertain Tuesday, September 10, at a card party in compliment to Miss Alma Brown, whose engagement to Charles Tower was a recent announcement. The affair will be quite elaborate and will take place at the attractive new home of the hostess in Piedmont.

HONORED GUESTS.
W. S. Palmer and W. R. Scott were the honored guests at a banquet given Saturday evening at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. Palmer has given up his position with the Southern Pacific as general superintendent of the northern division to take the place of vice-president and general manager of the Northwestern Pacific and Scott has been promoted to Palmer's place from division superintendent of the western division. The dinner was given under the auspices of the men who were associates of the two railroad officials on this side of the bay.

Among those present were H. J. Small, superintendent of motive power and machinery, A. W. Baker, assistant superintendent of the western division, W. H. Russell, master mechanic, Henry Eric, district master car repairer, R. M. Drake, district engineer of maintenance of way, H. B. Breckinfield, chief clerk to general superintendent, Frank O. Fabens, assistant chief clerk to general superintendent.

Women Honored By This Mayor
Three women have just received appointments from the mayor of New Orleans on his new Tenement House Commission. The commission is made up of seven members, and the four other men who have long been closely connected with public work in the city.

Of the three women one is a settlement worker who has taken an active interest in tenement house reform, one is a physician and the third is the president of the Eves Club, a leading women's club in New Orleans.

My! What a Scandal There Is Because

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 2.—Headless of morals by the Woman's Law and Order League, six old drunkards at Bayard found in the gutter while members were on their way home from church were stripped of their clothing and tarred and feathered. Nominally Bayard is a prohibition town, no permission ever having been granted to saloon men to open up. But day after day drunks were hauled into court and fined or sent to jail.

Finally, leading citizens organized a Law and Order League, with women and girls in the membership. The league issued bandbills a week ago announcing that it would tar and feather the first man found drunk on the public streets. Wednesday one of the regulation old topers fell by the wayside. He was promptly seized and treated to a heavy dose of tar, no feathers being immediately available.

Helped Tar and Feather Six Topers Who Insisted on Being Drunk on the Streets

WOMEN ACTIVE.
But even this appeared to be insufficient, and Sunday evening, when it was found that beer and whiskey had been retailed in liberal quantities all day, the league again became active. Members searched the streets on foot and by wagon and picked up half a dozen men who were staggering. They were loaded into a wagon and dragged through the principal streets, heading a procession of women and girls. A few of them were taken to a farm barn near by, where tar was applied hot

FAILED IN LOVE; TOOK TO WOODS

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Disappointed in love, there lives in the wildest section of Pike county, near the promised land, or Porter's Lake country, a young woman who goes under the name of Sophie Messereaux. It is said that she is of a prominent New Orleans family of creoles and has been educated in Europe. She speaks several languages, and has traveled in India, Russia, Japan and other foreign countries.

From what can be learned this young woman, who is but twenty-five years of age, met a bitter disappointment in a love affair in Paris. She came to her wild home in Pike county three years ago and, with the aid of her negro attendant, built a log cabin in the woods of that part of Pennsylvania.

FAMOUS TRAPPER.
As a trapper she has no equal. Her weapons are of most modern type, and it is said that she can hit the heads of ticks marked with chalk in a tree and drive them into the wood one after another with lightning rapidity. Among her weapons are several knives which have been given her by rajahs of India. These weapons are of the finest Damascus steel. So sharp are they that she will throw a feather in the air and as it descends on the blade the knife will cut the feather in halves.

She Has Become a Very Famous Huntress

Miss Messereaux is about five feet tall and would weigh about 135 pounds. She is a handsome woman with blue eyes and hair given to blonde and is said to be of a most modern type. Her apparel is composed of deerskin leggings and a coat of the same material, made by herself. She also wears a jaunty cap made of the skin of a coon pheasant, the plumes of which hang down behind. Her shoes are dainty pieces of a manufacturer's art.

Will Teach the Art of Home Making

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—"The object of the League for Home Economics is the preservation of the domestic home," said the president, Mrs. Julian Heath, when asked to talk about the work of the league. "We hear a great deal these days about the wage earning citizen generally, but precious little is said about or done for the woman in the home.

"Anywhere that a woman wants to become a doctor or a lawyer she can do so without paying a dollar for her training. She may become a trained nurse or an expert stenographer on the same terms, or if she prefers a trade there is the New York Trade School ready and glad to give her instruction free.

"If, on the other hand, she wishes to marry and become a home maker there is no school, to my knowledge, where she can learn to manage her household and spend her husband's earnings to the best advantage without paying a fancy price for the instruction.

FIELD OF WORK.
That is just the field that the league aims to fill. We teach women, the wives and mothers of our workmen, how to care for their households and spend the wages entrusted to their care to the greatest advantage.

"You often hear persons ask when talking about the approaching marriage of a young man who earns only a small wage, 'Can he support a family?' Yet rarely do we hear the question raised as to whether the girl he is marrying can properly spend his wages.

"We demand that the man be fitted to meet his obligations, but do not think it necessary that the woman should be fitted to meet hers. Articles are always appearing in the newspapers and magazines censuring the foolish expenditure of the workingman's earnings, yet next to nothing is done to better the condition. The only way is to teach their wives how to spend their husbands' wages judiciously.

TEACH FRUGALITY.
"When you realize that three-fourths of the income in the middle class and nine-tenths in the lower is spent directly by the mother, you understand how necessary it is that women should learn how to expend it judiciously. In the families the husband usually brings home his week's earnings in an unopened envelope and turns it over to his wife. It is for her to spend this income so that the members of her family shall be housed, clothed, fed and educated. It is for her to have the mothers of our tenements to meet existing conditions and teach them how to make both ends meet that the league several years ago started as an experiment in the home cooking classes. The experiment proved a success and every year our circle has widened until last spring when the classes ceased for the summer there were twenty-five separate classes."

HOME OR A CAREER ..

$20...FOR THE BEST ANSWER...$20

Thinks Career Proper Thing for Young Girls

Am a young girl and I think a career is best for a woman, for it brings out all the good that is in her. I have been "on the road" for a year and a half in the theatrical profession. Made a failure of home life and to myself seemed stupid, but all the business and sense that was ever in me has been brought out by contact with the world and I can truly say that I am twice as smart by leaving home and having no one to depend on for a year and a half than if I had remained home all my life. LILY HOLMES, 1119 Brush St., Oakland, Cal.

Who Do You Think Is Right?

Here is a chance for the women readers of the women's page of THE TRIBUNE.

Charles M. Schwab, the millionaire steel man, says that the sphere of a woman begins at home.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, society leader and brilliant leader of fashion, says the sphere of a woman is where she chooses to make it.

Mr. Schwab says that marriage is always the goal of woman, and Mrs. Fish says marriage is a minor consideration to a career.

WHICH OF THE TWO DO YOU BELIEVE IS RIGHT?

THE TRIBUNE will pay $20 for the best letter on this subject. Send in your opinion. The contest will remain open until September 15. Write plainly on one side of the paper, and write clearly, limiting your letter to one hundred words. Address, "Women's Page Editor, THE TRIBUNE, Oakland, Cal."

Home First Always, Is Every Woman's Cry

A woman's career and her place in this world are all due to circumstances. When born women are all alike, but as each strives she goes as her circumstances lead her. Ask today the woman working in public what she would like? And every woman will answer, "Give me a home," and she will be as good a housekeeper as she has been her success in her life's work.

Every woman would rather be in her home preparing for those she loves, than before the public. For women will be women as long as the world is in existence. GUSSE ALEXANDER, GUSSE ALEXANDER, Oakland, Cal.

Was Nearly Killed

Miss Messereaux is a veritable Diana of the forest and has maps of every section of the country. With a compass she travels, accompanied by her negro attendant, through both Pike and Wayne counties, sometimes going as far north as Canada. Her home is covered with deer and bear skins, the result of her prowess.

Last winter during the cold months of February, she was attacked by a bear, which she wounded, and was badly torn on the arm in the conflict. She had killed a deer and had dragged it across the lake to her cabin when a brown grizzly came and came upon her unexpectedly. She had one of her rich Damascus blades and plunged it into the bear's neck, and so sharp was the weapon that it nearly severed the bear's head. Before he could die she tore her arm badly with a sweep of his paw and it was some time before Miss Messereaux recovered from the wound. She now wears the animal's claws as a necklace.

WAS NEARLY KILLED.
Miss Messereaux is a close call with a lynx last spring, but she saved herself by her agility. The beast had accented the fish she was cooking out of doors during a warm day and sprang at her. In a moment a hard fight was on. Miss Messereaux used a knife in her defense, which she finally succeeded in jabbing into the back of the animal and ending the battle.

Miss Messereaux is in Canada at present, but expects to return to her Pike county home this winter.

Blow on Head Restores Sight Of an Old Lady Who Had Been Blind for Fourteen Years

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Susanne Freiler, eighty years old, of No. 330 North Twenty-ninth street, who has been completely blind for four years, is now as clear sighted as her twenty-year-old grandson, whose hands accidentally dealt the blow that restored her sight.

The boy, Harry Maussner, is one of the pupils of Girard College. Some weeks ago he was permitted to go home for a few days. He went to see his widowed mother and his grandmother, Mrs. Freiler.

"We are going to take you to have your picture taken," Mrs. Maussner told her son. He went to his room and put on his soldier's uniform. While waiting for the other he amused himself by marching up and down the

She Runs Bank And Has Women To Help Her

Mrs. V. Frank Church is cashier of the Bank of Joplin, Mo., which has four other women employees. In the last statement of the bank it reported deposits of $475,579.31 and a surplus of $280,000, which was just fifty times its capital sixteen years ago when Mrs. Church entered it as an employee.

Mrs. Church's first employment in the Bank of Joplin was as bookkeeper and teller. After serving six years she was promoted to her present place. On Saturday, which is payday for Joplin members, the bank makes average payments of $40,000 and credits $60,000 to depositors.

The other women employed are Miss G. M. Miller, assistant cashier; Miss O. M. McAbey and Miss Harriette Maxwell, bookkeepers, and Mrs. Blanche Jenkins, teller.

Fashion Exhibit Planned for European Women

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The feminine world of London is agitated by the news of the proposition to hold in London in February next a London and Paris dress exhibition. The idea has been quickly taken up by the leading firms on both sides of the channel. Most of the famous London houses have already promised to exhibit their latest "creations," and everything that is essential to the wardrobe of the "well-dressed" will be shown in its perfection. Over one hundred firms from Vienna, Paris and other Continental cities are to be interested, and it is estimated that the value of the exhibits will be close upon half a million dollars.

She Has Cure For Drunkards In Oranges

Mrs. Alfred H. Shannon of Florida announces the discovery that oranges will cure the drink habit. Her first patient was a man who had for more than forty years been addicted to drink. Acting on her suggestion, he began each day by eating an orange as soon as he opened his eyes in the morning. Before going to breakfast he ate another. After breakfast he ate still another, and followed that up with more fruit every time he felt a craving for drink. He carried this treatment through for one month and at the end of that time had lost all desire for drink. Instead, an orange at least three times a day had become necessary for his health and happiness.

She Sincerely Believes That All Good Dogs Will Go to Heaven Same as People

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 2.—Mrs. Chetwood Smith, a member of one of the best known families in this region, believes dogs go to heaven.

"Go to heaven? Of course they do," she declared. "I know they do, and it is wicked to kill them as they have been killed this summer on suspicion of having rabies. Not one dog in one hundred killed for lots of fifty, as has been done here, is nothing less than criminal."

Mrs. Smith recently lost a pet dog. The dog catcher brought one to her for inspection, but it was not hers. When she

You've Got to Be Crazy To Be a Successful Actress in These Days

"You've got to be crazy to be a successful actress nowadays," was the remark of a young woman who wants to be an actress herself. "Everything is what they call temperamental nowadays, and that means nothing short of insanity. Unless you do crazy things no one thinks you have any talent, and managers least of all."

stage manager roughly told her she couldn't act.

"Very well," said she, nothing daunted.

"Perhaps I can't. I'm going to try, at all events. I believe in trying to develop any talent you possess, and if I don't succeed then I'll give it up and be satisfied. But until I've tried my wings I shan't believe

Smart Way Now To Wear Watch

The smartest way at present of wearing a watch is to hang it from a narrow black velvet ribbon about half way down the bodice, just as a jacket would be worn. At first the style looked a trifle odd, but people have been accustomed to it by the gradually increasing size of the lockets worn. The velvet ribbon is fitted with rhinestone or jewel slides and clasps. There is something very chic about the decoration and it adds mightily to the summer girl's costume, particularly with a white dress.

Alpine Club To Take in Women

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Alpine Club, having refused to admit women, the women have decided to have an Alpine Club of their own. Mrs. Aubrey Le Blond, who is to be president of the club, is at once mountain climber, skater and Irish landlord, and has written in several books the fruits of her climbing and exploring experiences. Her first husband was Col. Fred Burnaby. Another of the founders is Mrs. Panny Bullock Workman, a native of Massachusetts. Now is the hour of building the works of record in mountain climbing, this by virtue of the 1920 act she reached in the

First Woman to Be Thus Honored

Dr. Ella Prentiss Upham is president of the Homeopathic Medical Society of New Jersey. At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the society at Asbury Park she was highly complimented and a resolution was passed thanking her for her work in behalf of the homeopaths of the State.

Girl's Pluck and Loyalty Helped Aged Father to Get Out of Debtor's Cell

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Joseph E. Bick, released yesterday from Ludlow street jail, owes his freedom to the efforts of his daughter Fanny.

Bick, who is sixty-four years old, was senior member of the clothing firm of Bick Brothers, of 123 Mercer street, which got into financial difficulties last May. In the investigation of the firm's affairs Bick was convicted of contempt of court, on account of his unsatisfactory explanation of the disappearance of $100,000, some shortly before bankruptcy proceedings were started. He was sent to jail June 17.

Miss Bick borrowed $9500 from relatives of the bankrupt. Edwin Goodman gave $4500, Simon G. Kosch $3000 and Leo Runkel $2000. She is to repay the money to these men out of her own funds if able to do so and if unable to do so they are willing to lose the money they advanced. They all made affidavits that no part of the money ever belonged to the bankrupt.

As an evidence of good faith the money was given to United States Marshal Frank Bell, who will be required to

FIRST PRIZE IN LABOR DAY PARADE TO SHEET METALMEN

A Thanksgiving Sale At "The Owl" Stores

THE OWL gives thanks. A recent event has made this a period of real thanksgiving for us. We started the month of April last year at the very high-tide of our prosperity and progress, with eight well established stores, all doing a tremendous volume of business. Then came the San Francisco fire—five stores, and our large warehouse and laboratory, all were a total loss. It was a case of "down but not out" for "The Owl." We set to work at once to build up what was destroyed, and we have more than done it. In a little more than a year's time "The Owl" is stronger and greater than ever. "The Owl's" eighth store has just been added to the family. Last month on the corner of San Pablo Ave. and 16th St., "The Owl" opened its eighth and grandest store. To celebrate this event, and to make known the thankfulness that is ours, we will inaugurate, for this week and next week, a THANKSGIVING SALE in every "Owl" Drug Store in California. That it will be a success is unquestionable. Read the prices—You know "Owl" quality. The items are selected so as to reach every class. See how the prices shout aloud. Sale commences Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. Next week a new list of specials. Watch the papers.

FOUR INJURED WHEN CAR COLLIDES WITH UNION BUS

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Four men were more or less seriously injured in a collision between a union bus and a Turk street car at 4 o'clock this morning.

The bus was making its regular morning trip and was carrying the pressmen of the three morning papers to their homes. When it reached the corner of Turk and Larkin streets the driver heard the clang of an owl car in the distance. He did not realize how close the car was approaching and began to turn out from the track too late. The motorman on the car put on his brakes, but they failed to work and the car hit the wagon just in front of the hind wheel, throwing four men and a woman to the street.

WOMAN ESCAPES.

All were injured except the young woman, who, falling on top of one of the men, escaped without a scratch. Immediately after the accident the other passengers on the bus fled police whistles and Policeman Fredrickson was attracted to the scene. Bystanders urged him to arrest the motorman, but as he had not seen the accident he at first demurred. But seeing a revolver in the back pocket of the car man, placed him under arrest.

The crowd claimed that the conductor was also armed and the officer searched him, but did not find the gun. One of the pressmen, however, picked up a revolver under one of the seats and on the strength of this the officer also arrested the conductor.

SENT TO HOSPITAL.

The four injured men were taken to the Central Emergency Hospital and treated by Dr. Tillman. They are Harry Connor, 1235 McAllister street, badly lacerated wound of the scalp, possible internal injuries; D. J. Curry, 240 Twentieth avenue, contusions and abrasions of a right rib; Fred Foley, Twentieth avenue and Point Lobos, lacerated wounds of the forehead and numerous bruises; and F. H. Wilson, 1445 McAllister street, abrasions and contusions of the left leg.

The two men arrested gave their names as Archie Miller and Howell Trojan. The former was charged with battery and carrying concealed weapons and the latter with carrying concealed weapons.

AUTO AND TROLLEY CRASH; WOMAN FATALY INJURED

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Cleo F. Colt, wife of Olcott Colt, formerly of Hartford, Conn., was probably fatally injured early today in a collision between a runaway wagon, in which the Colts were riding, and a trolley car on Sixth avenue. Mr. Colt was badly bruised. The motorman and conductor of the trolley car have been arrested.

Mr. Colt is the son of the late arms manufacturer, Mr. and Mrs. Colt were driving across Sixth avenue, when an empty car returning to the car barns crashed into the light run-about. The car was speeding at the rate of thirty miles an hour and the eye-witness state that all the lights were out and the gong was silent. The car hit the wagon squarely, cutting it in half, and throwing Mr. and Mrs. Colt to the ground fifteen feet away. The horse was jammed against an elevated pillar and became entangled in the harness. Mr. and Mrs. Colt were removed to a nearby hotel, where it was found that Mrs. Colt was paralyzed from her waist down and suffering from internal injuries. Mr. Colt was bruised all over and was injured about the head.

CLAIM FATHER STABS CHILD

One Antone Scivo Held by Police Pending Search for Family of Prisoner.

The police are detaining Antone Scivo of 124 East Eleventh street while they investigate the stabbing of his 16-year-old daughter, Elsie. Rumors of horrible cruelties practiced on his wife and daughter will also be investigated. The man's family has disappeared and the police are searching for them.

Sergeant Kyle made a special examination of the case yesterday on the orders of Chief of Police Wilson, but was handicapped by the disappearance of the wife and daughter. According to his report, both left last night for San Jose.

From what the policeman learned at the affair, it is believed that Scivo attacked his wife and daughter after returning from work Saturday afternoon, after being angered at their failure to prepare for his Saturday homecoming.

TURNS ON CHILD.

When Elsie, the 16-year-old daughter, attempted to interfere in behalf of her mother, Scivo is alleged to have turned upon the child, biting her face and arms in the frenzy of his rage. Excited by the screams for help, he claimed to have dashed to the kitchen and, seizing a long knife, ran after the wife and daughter, who sought safety in the bedroom.

The daughter received the wound as she was dashing down the steps.

When the police arrived on the scene Scivo was the only one in the house. The wife and daughter have not returned. According to the statement of the neighbors, both are in San Jose. Scivo is being held at the city prison.

Labor Day Parade Omitted in Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—For the first time since the inauguration of Labor Day the great parade of the unions was omitted. Several weeks ago the various organizations decided to abandon the parade and devote to other uses the large amount of money which was formerly expended on the parade. Business houses and factories were generally closed.

AGED NEGRO FOUND DEAD IN MISSION

Samuel Muller, an aged negro, was found dead in bed at the "What-so-ever" Mission at 389 Ninth street yesterday morning, when the bedmaker opened the door, wondering at the cause of Muller's non-appearance at breakfast. Muller was 65 years old, and was taken to the Mission a week ago by a negro preacher, who advanced his expenses for a week. The morgue officials have charge of the case. Death was due to natural causes and the infirmities of age.

AUTO CRASHES TELEGRAPH POLE; WOMAN FATALLY HURT

Six Other Accidents Result in Six Deaths, Including Children and Two Italian Noblemen.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—In an automobile smash-up at Haight and Scott streets last night Miss Alice McNamara, residing at Frederick and Stanton streets, was fatally injured, three other persons sustained minor injuries and the wrecked machine was completely destroyed by flames.

Miss McNamara suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and was internally injured. Miss Clara Grace, Walter Bryant, a structural iron worker, and Joseph Griffin, chauffeur, escaped with cuts and bruises.

HITS TELEGRAPH POLE.
The automobile, driven by Griffin, dashed into a telegraph pole while rounding the corner into Scott street at a high rate of speed. There was a crash, followed by screams of women, and an instant later flames enveloped the auto.

GORY SIGHT.
The crowd that came running to the scene found the two women lying unconscious on the pavement. Miss McNamara was motionless between the wrecked machine and the telegraph pole. Griffin and Bryant were stretched on the cobble, both covered with blood.

TO HOSPITAL.
The spectators turned their attention to the injured, unheeding of the auto which by this time was a mass of flames. Miss McNamara was hurried to the Emergency Hospital, where her condition was pronounced serious. Her companions were able to go to their homes unaided.

Griffin, the driver of the car, was also its owner. The party had been out for an evening's ride and were speeding homeward when the accident occurred. Griffin was dazed when he was picked up and was under the impression that he had collided with another machine.

BRESCIA, Italy, Sept. 2.—Baron de Martono, one of the best known noblemen in Italy, was killed yesterday in the auto race for the Florio Cup.

At the signal, thirty-four competitors lined up at the starting point. The fatal accident took place not far from the grand stand. The steering gear of the car driven by the Baron suddenly broke while the machine was running at a high speed. It ran off the road and the Baron was thrown with fearful force against a tree and instantly killed.

MARQUIS KILLED.
MAGENTA, Italy, Sept. 2.—In an auto accident yesterday the Marquis Pallavicini and a lawyer named Naimino were killed. Their chauffeur, not noticing that the gate was closed, was closing the gate on the car as it was about to start. The train bore down on them.

ONE KILLED; FOUR INJURED.
ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A powerful touring car plunged over a fifteen-foot embankment at Elmira City, six of them were killed yesterday. Killing H. B. Sears of Toga and injuring four others. The party was bound from Toga to Elmira.

WM. R. HEARST TELLS OF CONDITIONS THAT PREVAIL IN SAN FRANCISCO

tion throughout the ruined city was great, provisions increased in price and the cost of living nearly doubled. There was no criticism of that. The laborer was compelled to charge more for his labor to meet these conditions, and there should have been no criticism of that.

RUINED CITY.
"Moreover, the ruined city had to be rebuilt, and there was ten times the building that there ever had been before. Following the universal law of supply and demand, the price of lumber went up, and there was no criticism of that.

"Furthermore, the price of brick went up and the price of iron and steel went up, and there were no criticisms of that, although the steel magnate did not live in San Francisco and was not subject to the trying conditions there.

"But the union laborer did live in San Francisco, and was subject to the trying conditions, and then the price of his labor was also subject to the law of supply and demand. But when the price of his labor went up there was criticism and a mighty outcry against the unreasonable demands of the unions.

"My friends, the payment of high wages to labor in San Francisco was the one thing that saved the city. Those high wages were spent liberally at the stores and the stores were profitable. The profits of the stores were deposited in the banks and the banks were prosperous. Despite the calamity, business boomed and the city had as great an era of prosperity as it has ever had in its history.

"These wages attracted thousands to the city which, otherwise, because of its ruined condition, would have been unattractive.

HIGH WAGES.
"If those high wages had not been paid thousands would have been compelled to leave, the stores would have been without patronage, the banks without deposits, the city without prosperity. This unexampled prosperity at this unexpected period was caused by a proper distribution of wealth and a proper circulation of money through good wages.

"Therefore, I say, there should be no prejudice entertained by the capitalist toward the laborer, and there should be no prejudice by the laborer toward the capitalist. There should be an appreciation of the essential part which each plays in the creation of wealth.

"The workingman is worthy of his hire, the business man of his profit. The man who digs the precious metal from the earth is worth his wages. The man who tells him where to find the gold deserves his profit. The great financial promoters, organizers, executives of America, are worthy of recognition and reward.

"Through many an anxious day and many a wakeful night these men have planned and prosecuted the great enterprises which have developed the wealth of the nation and have given employment to millions of men. Let them have a liberal share of that wealth so long as that is the incentive which entitles them to useful activity. Let them have wealth so long as it is honestly acquired through enterprises that benefit the whole community. The richer they amass and call their own are seldom spent in extravagance and luxury upon themselves, but are put back into new industries to produce more wealth and give employment to more men.

TRUE CAPTAINS.
"The true captain of industry is the general of our industrial army. He cannot do without soldiers, and yet, no matter how well the soldiers fight, the victory depends very largely on the general's skillful conduct of the campaign.

"The great business man is the manager of the enterprise in which we are all embarked. He is as necessary to us as we are to him, for no matter how well we work, the success of the enterprise and the profit of it depends very largely on the ability of his management.

"To achieve the most complete success for all, there should be the greatest harmony between promoter and wage-earner, and an ungrudging appreciation of each other's value. Then, within the fullest victory, there should be confidence and concerted action between the commander and the men behind the guns.

"And now, my friends, in the creation of wealth and the equitable distribution of wealth, not only is co-operation necessary, but organization is necessary. Organization in unions, organizations of capital, all organizations which tend to make human effort more effective, to increase and not to curtail the production of wealth are of advantage to mankind.

"Labor unions are valuable not only to their own members, but to the whole community.

"Farmers' unions are valuable not only to their own members, but to the whole community. And honest, law-abiding organizations of capital are valuable not only to their own stockholders, but to the whole community.

"Of course, capitalistic combinations in restraint of trade, and in the establishment of monopoly, are not combinations for production, but for extortion, and activity of this character is not industry, but robbery.

"There is the same difference between legitimate organization and criminal combination as there is between commerce and piracy, between house-building and house-breaking.

"But united effort is always more effective than distracted effort, and organization and combination may be said to be beneficial whenever their objects are legitimate.

PURPOSE OF UNIONS.
"The main purpose of labor unions is to secure comfortable conditions and adequate compensation for the wage-earners. These are proper purposes, and labor unions, in securing a just division of profit, compel an equitable distribution of wealth.

"The main objects of farmers' unions is to secure proper recognition and adequate compensation for those who produce the necessities of life. These are honorable objects, and farmers' unions, in establishing a proper price for their invaluable products, compel an equitable distribution of wealth.

"The main objects of the community and the distribution of wealth throughout these large bodies is absolutely essential to general prosperity.

"As a matter of fact, if the farmers and laborers are not prosperous there is no prosperity for the rest of the community. If the farmers and laborers are not prosperous, there is no money to spend at the stores, there is no buyers at the stores, there are no orders from the factories, no manufacturing property. Then there are no deposits at the banks, no investments in securities, no financial prosperity.

"Prosperity means, first, the creation of wealth, and then the distribution of wealth. We all realize the advantage of putting money into circulation, but how are we going to put money into circulation on any large scale except in good wages to workers and good prices to farmers? If I buy a block of land worth a million dollars there is really no money put into circulation. There is a transfer on the books of some bank and a million dollars which stood in my name now stands under somebody else's name. That's all. No one else is benefited. But if I put up a million-dollar building that block I pay out thousands of dollars to bricklayers and thousands of dollars to ironworkers and thousands of dollars to carpenters and plasterers and plumbers, and that money is spent by hundreds of men for hundreds of families in food and clothing and supplies and rent-in necessities and luxuries and amusements, and the whole community is benefited. Prosperity for the working classes means prosperity for the commercial classes. It means prosperity for me as a newspaper man. It means prosperity for every business man.

LEGITIMATE OBJECT.
"The legitimate object of honest combinations of capital is to unite wealth of many individuals in one great enterprise and to distribute the profits of the enterprise among the many investors. By means of such combinations operations are conducted on a scale that would be beyond the power of any single individual.

"Most of the great works of the country have been constructed by the combined capital of thousands of men, and many of these works would never have been completed in such magnitude, or, at all, if they had depended upon the limited resources of a few men.

"The effectiveness of combinations of capital is seen in their enormous power for good and their menace lies in the misuse of that enormous power for evil. There is no greater danger to our form of government, to our civil liberties and our public morals than the corrupt use of great power of corporate wealth.

STEAM SHOVELS ON COPPER

ELY, Nev., Sept. 2.—Within two weeks five steam shovels will be placed on the Bureha mine of the Nevada Consolidated at Copper Flat, and these monstrous machines will at once begin the task of stripping the surface of this mine in accordance with previously arranged plans of the directors of that company.

At a point near the boarding house it will be necessary to take off about twenty feet of dirt, but near the shaft house those in charge figure that the surface will have to be stripped to a depth of fifty feet before the ore will be encountered.

This work has been started under the direction of Dan W. Gault, who recently arrived from South Africa, and one shovel is now used in grading a track for a dinky engine, which will ply between Copper Flat and the Star Pointer shaft.

From Lovelock comes word that a new sensation in the Gold Run district last week was the new strike on the Galena mine, owned by Webb & Farant. This property is located about a mile and a half south of the Adelaide mine. It is a silver-lead proposition and surface assays showed a value of $24. A shaft sunk on the ledge and down twelve feet has opened the ledge for seven feet in width, and has disclosed high-grade silver ore. Samples of the ore show ruby silver and miners have estimated it will run 1000 ounces in the white metal. The ore has been shipped to the assayer and the owners of the property are awaiting returns.
